

University of Minnesota Extension Center for Family Development is happy to announce 4 extension educator positions.

1) Extension Educator, Families in Transition

- Education focused on family strengthening education for Latino and other New American families, specifically addressing educational disparities and parenting during family transitions.
- See link/requisition number below for full description and work location.
- Master's degree required. At least one degree in Family Studies, Family Education, Family Science, Human Ecology, Social Work or closely related field.
- Demonstrated ability to work effectively with new, diverse, and underserved audiences. Fluency at intermediate or advanced level in a language other than English, with preference for Spanish.
- Proven ability to apply and integrate research-based knowledge into program design, delivery, and evaluation.
- Applications taken until February 17 or until filled.
- Requisition Number: 176308
- <https://employment.umn.edu>

2) Extension Educator, Families in Transition

- Education focused on strengthening education for divorcing parents, unmarried parents, military families, and families impacted by disaster.
- Education to achieve targeted outcomes and impacts, including improved co-parenting when parents are not together, more healthy family functioning during family transitions (e.g. deployment, divorce, establishing paternity), and better adaptations and adjustments to major family stressors (e.g. natural disasters, parent deployments).
- See link/requisition number below for full description and work location.
- Master's degree required. At least one degree in Family Studies, Family Education, Family Science, Human Ecology, Social Work or closely related field.
- Proven ability to apply and integrate research-based knowledge into program design, delivery, and evaluation.
- Applications taken until February 17 or until filled.
- Requisition Number: 176313
- <https://employment.umn.edu>

3) Extension Educator, Building Healthy and Strong Families

- Education focuses on family strengthening education that addresses the intersection between food insecurity, hunger, poverty, and family financial capabilities.
- See link/requisition number below for full description and work location.
- Master's degree required. At least one degree in Family Social Science, Family Resource Management, Applied Economics, Family Studies, Family Education, Family Science, Human Ecology, Social Work or closely related field. Evidence of coursework in Food Science, Nutrition, and/or Public Health.
- Proven ability to apply and integrate research-based knowledge into program design, delivery, and evaluation.
- Applications taken until February 17 or until filled.
- Requisition Number: 176311
- <https://employment.umn.edu>

4) Extension Educator, Building Healthy and Strong Families

- Education focuses on family strengthening education that addresses the intersection between childhood, obesity, family systems, parenting practices, family involvement in youth health and nutrition education (school-based and out of school time), and parenting adolescents.
- See link/requisition number below for full description and work location.
- Master's degree required. At least one degree in Family Social Science, Family Resource Management, Applied Economics, Family Studies, Family Education, Family Science, Human Ecology, Social Work or closely related field. Evidence of coursework in Food Science, Nutrition, and/or Public Health.
- Proven ability to apply and integrate research-based knowledge into program design, delivery, and evaluation.
- Applications taken until February 17 or until filled.
- Requisition Number: 176315
- <https://employment.umn.edu>

If you have questions please contact Dr. Patricia Olson at pdolson@umn.edu or 612-624-1786.